- Standard 10: Professional Growth and Development

Standard 1: Visionary Leadership

Visionary leadership is the foundation of effective school management under the 10 Florida principal leadership standards. Principals are expected to create and communicate a clear, compelling vision for their schools that aligns with district and state educational goals. This vision must inspire staff, students, and the community to strive for academic excellence and continuous improvement.

Establishing a Shared Vision

Principals collaborate with stakeholders to develop a shared vision that reflects the values and aspirations of the entire school community. This process involves gathering input, analyzing data, and ensuring alignment with Florida's educational standards.

Leading Change and Innovation

As visionary leaders, principals champion innovative practices and foster a culture open to change. They encourage creative problem-solving and support the adoption of new instructional strategies that enhance student learning outcomes.

Standard 2: Instructional Leadership

Instructional leadership is a critical component of the 10 Florida principal leadership standards, focusing on promoting high-quality teaching and learning. Principals serve as instructional leaders by guiding curriculum implementation, assessing student performance, and supporting professional development for teachers.

Curriculum and Instruction Oversight

Principals ensure that the curriculum meets state standards and addresses diverse student needs. They monitor instructional practices and use data-driven decision-making to improve teaching efficacy.

Supporting Teacher Effectiveness

Providing ongoing feedback, coaching, and resources to teachers is vital. Principals facilitate professional learning communities and encourage collaboration among educators to promote instructional excellence.

Standard 3: Organizational Leadership

Organizational leadership under the 10 Florida principal leadership standards involves managing the school's resources, personnel, and operational systems efficiently. Effective principals establish structures that support the school's mission and optimize resource allocation.

Managing School Resources

Principals oversee budgeting, staffing, and facilities management to ensure resources are used effectively to support student achievement.

Developing School Policies

Creating and enforcing policies that promote safety, equity, and fairness is essential for maintaining an organized and supportive learning environment.

Standard 4: Collaborative Leadership

Collaboration is emphasized in the 10 Florida principal leadership standards as a means to build strong partnerships within the school and the broader community. Principals foster teamwork among staff, engage families, and connect with community organizations to support student success.

Building Professional Relationships

Effective principals cultivate trust and respect among educators and support staff through open communication and shared decision-making.

Engaging Families and Communities

Involving parents and community stakeholders in school activities and decision processes strengthens the support network for students and enhances educational outcomes.

Standard 5: Ethical Leadership

Ethical leadership is a cornerstone of the 10 Florida principal leadership standards, requiring principals to act with integrity, fairness, and accountability. Ethical conduct establishes a positive school culture and promotes trust among all stakeholders.

Modeling Ethical Behavior

Principals demonstrate ethical decision-making in daily practices and uphold professional standards that reflect respect and responsibility.

Ensuring Equity and Inclusiveness

Leading with an equity-focused mindset ensures all students have access to quality education and that discrimination or bias are actively addressed within the school environment.

Standard 6: Operational Leadership

Operational leadership involves managing the day-to-day functions of the school to create a safe and productive environment. This standard within the 10 Florida principal leadership standards focuses on logistics, compliance, and crisis management.

Safety and Security Management

Principals develop and implement safety protocols to protect students and staff, including emergency preparedness and response plans.

Regulatory Compliance

Ensuring adherence to state and federal regulations, including attendance, reporting, and special education requirements, is a key responsibility.

Standard 7: Strategic Leadership

Strategic leadership under the 10 Florida principal leadership standards requires principals to plan long-term goals and align resources strategically to achieve school improvement objectives.

Data-Informed Decision Making

Principals analyze academic and operational data to identify trends, set priorities, and allocate resources effectively to support student achievement.

Goal Setting and Monitoring

Setting measurable goals and regularly evaluating progress ensures continuous growth and accountability within the school community.

Standard 8: Cultural Leadership

Cultural leadership emphasizes the importance of creating an inclusive and respectful school climate. The 10 Florida principal leadership standards highlight principals' roles in fostering diversity and cultural competence.

Promoting Diversity and Inclusion

Principals implement practices that celebrate cultural diversity and address the needs of diverse student populations.

Building Positive School Climate

A positive, supportive environment encourages student engagement, reduces disciplinary issues, and enhances overall academic success.

Standard 9: Communication Leadership

Effective communication is essential under the 10 Florida principal leadership standards. Principals must convey information clearly and foster open dialogue among all school stakeholders.

Transparent Information Sharing

Maintaining transparency in decision-making and school policies builds trust and encourages community involvement.

Conflict Resolution and Negotiation

Principals use communication skills to resolve conflicts and negotiate solutions that benefit the school community.

Standard 10: Professional Growth and Development

This standard encourages principals to engage in continuous professional learning to enhance their leadership capabilities. The 10 Florida principal leadership standards recognize that effective leaders model lifelong learning.

Self-Reflection and Improvement

Principals assess their own performance and seek feedback to identify areas for growth and development.

Participation in Leadership Development

Engaging in training, workshops, and professional networks helps principals stay informed about best practices and emerging trends in education leadership.

- Visionary leadership to guide school direction

10 florida principal leadership standards: Effects of Business Management Training on the Leadership Skills of Florida Educators in Urban Schools Dillon M. Williams, 2016 Urban Florida school principals' failure to meet one or more of the 10 state-mandated Florida Principal Leadership Standards (FPLS) was identified as a potential cause for a lack of students' academic achievement. The purpose of the study was to determine the effects of business management training on the leadership skills of Florida educators in urban schools. The perceptions of the efficacy of Master of Science (MS) programs to prepare urban Florida school principals to meet the statutory requirements of The Florida Principal Leadership Standards were also examined. The theoretical framework for this descriptive quantitative study was based on the Skills-based Leadership model developed by Mumford and his colleagues. Research questions examined participants' perceptions of their MS program to meet each of the 10 Florida Principal Leadership Standards. The purposive study sample consisted of 30 urban Florida school principals who rated their MS program's preparation to meet each FPLS using a Likert-type survey instrument. A one-sample Student's t-test for mean differences indicated that participants found their MS program prepared them to meet each of the 10 FPLS at statistically significant levels at p

10 florida principal leadership standards: An Analysis of the Aspiring Principal Preparation Programs Provided by Florida School Districts Deborah E. Lawrence, 2010-03 The purpose of the study was to identify the basis of the aspiring principal preparation program (APPP) components

Florida school districts provide to their aspiring principals and their relationship, if any, to the state and ISLLC Standards. A total of 50 school districts in Florida participated in this study. The research was guided by the following questions: To what extent do the Florida school districts provide a formal APPP to their current assistant principals? (b) Upon what are the formal APPPs for current assistant principals based: the Florida Principal Competencies (FPCs), the Interstate School Leaders Licensure Consortium (ISLLC) Standards, or another source? (c) To what extent do the school district APPPs in the 67 Florida districts have component requirements that include professional development, mentoring, and a performance-based experience? and (d) Are there differences among the APPP components provided by Florida school districts of various sizes? The findings of the study were found through an examination of quantitative and qualitative data that were collected from the Florida Aspiring Principal Program Assessment (FLAPPA) survey and the school districts' APPP brochures located on their websites. This study supported the following conclusions: (a) 75% of the school districts in Florida do provide an APPP for their aspiring principals, (b) the FPCs and the ISLLC Standards are a part of the bases of the components found in APPPs provided by Florida school districts, (c) Florida school districts do provide APPPs that include components of a mentor principal, a performance-based experience, and professional development, (d) very large-sized school districts with a population over 100 thousand students contained the largest percentage of standards-based components in the APPP; small-sized school districts with a population of under 7 thousand students contained the least percentage of standards-based components in the APPP, (e) school districts in Florida recognized the need to modify and were in the process of modifying their APPPs according to the new Florida leadership standards, especially the component of technology, and (f) a lack of funding, time, and assessment were identified as APPP weaknesses and components in need of improvement. Recommendations of this study included: (a) further research on Florida school districts redesign of their APPP components to identify whether or not the components are based upon the new Florida Leadership Standards, especially technology; and the ISLLC educational standards; and (b) further research on Florida school districts providing a mentor principal and support team; professional development, and a performance-based experience to their current assistant principals who participate in an APPP, thus ensuring best practices in the APPP and improving the quality of their future principals.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Leading Schools in Challenging Times Bruce Anthony Jones, Anthony Rolle, 2016-03-01 Over the past 30 years our public school system has received an unprecedented amount of attention as this concerns methods of school reform and policy strategies for bringing about this reform. During the 1980s the emphasis of school reform was on transparency through school-community partnerships. Business and philanthropy, for example, became involved with issues of schooling that was unheard of prior to this period. The 1980s also gave rise to issues of school finance and student performance that went beyond traditional views that tended to focus on finance "adequacy" to views that focused more on school finance arrangements that would lead to actual "equitable outcomes" in student performance. The 1990s witnessed the emergence of the comprehensive school reform movement whereby curriculum outsourcing occurred at rates that had never occurred before. With this movement, the role of teachers and school leaders in the creation of school curriculum diminished as school districts increasingly purchased vendor-related curriculum packages, which included teacher and leader training modules and methods of curriculum assessment. On the heels of the increasing tendency of school districts to outsource school curriculum to curriculum-vendors came a rise in demands for school accountability and school outcomes. This was particularly evident with the passage of No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB) (2001). NCLB was also developed within a political context that called for demands in the academic improvement of schools and school districts that housed historically disenfranchised students. These demands were particularly important as the nation experienced and continues to experience dramatic increases in student racial and ethnic diversity. This volume, entitled, Leading Schools in Challenging Times: Eye to the Future, discusses varying types of school leadership in the context of key topics that have been at the center of on-going school reform in the United States. These topics include challenges, opportunities and issues associated with our administrator and teacher leadership pipeline, preparation and development; leadership and school finance reform, leadership and changing student and population demographics; leadership and the role of community; issues of leadership, policy, public accountability and school performance outcomes. The authors also explicate these issues with a view to the future and the status of leadership in our public school system.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Training School Principals as Talent Developers Sonya Hayes, Nahed Abdelrahman, Beverly Irby, Fredrick. M. Nafukho, 2022-08-01 Training School Principals as Talent Developers: An International Perspective focuses on how to prepare school principals to lead their schools by training and supporting teachers in their craft. The main goal of schools is improving teaching and learning in order to maximize students' potential to be college ready and career ready. Principals play significant role in improving the instructions which improves students' learning. In order to do so, we need inspiring principals to be talent developers. The book is comprised of chapters written by faculty and researchers from various countries and offers multiple perspectives on training and developing principals to be talent developers. In the ten chapters of this edited book, we wanted to address the perspectives of "who is the role model of a principal, what are the qualities needed to make a good principal and what are the challenges that the talent developer principals encounter to achieve their goals. We also wanted to broaden the lens by addressing these perspectives in the United States and globally.

10 florida principal leadership standards: An Examination of Principal Shortages in Florida School Districts Kim Kotila Stutsman, 2007 To determine the meaning of the term well-qualified as it applied to candidates for vacant principal positions, an interview survey protocol was administered to six selected school districts: two small, two medium and two large. Responses were compared to the 10 Florida Leadership Standards. The meaning of well-qualified varied from district to district; they desire principals whose qualifications exceed the 10 Florida Principal Leadership Standards. A well-designed succession plan may assist school districts in recruiting, hiring, and training well-qualified principals. Eighteen (18) research based succession plan components were recommended.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Fcpes School-Based Administrator Evaluation System Henry A. Rose, 2013-09 The FCPES School-Based Administrator Evaluation is a performance evaluation system for school-based administrators that is aligned to the ten Florida Principal Leadership Standards(FPLS), State Board of Education Rule 6A-5.080. When administering the evaluation, the evaluator will record the proficiency levels which indicate how well an administrator performs on each individual indicator on the evaluation system. The evaluation system is comprised of four domains, 10 standards, and 50 indicators. Each indicator will have a proficiency rating and each standard will have a total performance rating. At the completion of the evaluation, a total performance score will be calculated. A rating scale will be used to determine the overall performance level of the administrator which will be one of the following four ratings: Highly Effective; Effective; Needs Improvement; or Unsatisfactory.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Florida Superintendents' Views Related to the Involuntary Removal of School Principals Christopher S. Bernier, 2011 This study sought to determine how external influences designed to improve student achievement and school performance such as No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, The Florida A+ Program, and the Differentiated Accountability model impacted Florida school superintendents' prioritization of the Florida Principal Leadership Standards. In the study, major questions addressed concerned (a) the demographic characteristics of the school principals and superintendents involved in the removal of a school principal within the state of Florida; (b) the relationship between the problems a principal encountered and the Florida Principal Leadership Standards; (c) the Florida Principal Leadership Standards that were most often cited and rated most important by school superintendents when determining reasons to remove a school principal within Florida; (d) principal's years of experience as a predictor of principal competence; (e) sources of information that were most important in providing awareness of principal problems; (f) interventions, if any, that were provided to principals to assist them in improving prior to the decision to remove them; and (g) principal career outcomes that were most likely to occur following a superintendent's decision to remove a school principal. Utilizing a previously researched survey, the 67 Florida public school superintendents were asked to prioritize the Florida Principal Leadership Standards related to the removal of a single principal from the position and provide pertinent demographic information related to this individual. The following principal leadership standards were most commonly identified as important to the decision to remove a school principal: (a) human resource management, (b) decision making strategies, (c) instructional leadership, (d) managing the learning environment, and (e) community and stakeholder partnerships.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Evaluating Instructional Leadership Julie R. Smith, Raymond L. Smith, 2015-02-19 Improve principal evaluation and create highly effective leaders! Even with great teachers, student achievement hinges on an effective principal. Behind every high-quality principal is an airtight system of leadership evaluation that consistently rewards excellence and remedies deficits. While teacher evaluation methods have improved, instructional leadership evaluation has often stood still—and student learning and achievement have paid the price. This book identifies the major problems in this process and articulates clear solutions. The result is a blueprint for ensuring the best person for the job is occupying the principal's chair. Content includes: Extensive data, presented in a user-friendly manner Clear connections to the ISLLC Standards for School Leaders A suite of interactive tools including sample self-assessments, mid-year and final evaluation forms, and professional growth plans This book not only highlights the key messages about the role of the leader, but it does so in a way that is engaging, practical, and reflects the Smiths' long history of being school leaders, teaching school leaders, and seeing the effects of their teaching. I have seen the Smiths in action, separately and together, and they know how to lead and how to teach, they have a strength of purpose they do not waver from, and these attributes come through in this book. -John Hattie, Director Melbourne Education Research Institute, University of Melbourne After reading this book, you'll truly understand what it takes to grow as a lead learner. We can always get better. This book provides quality insight on strategies that will make good leaders great. -Brad Currie, School Leader, Corwin Author and Co-Founder of #Satchat

10 florida principal leadership standards: Leadership Style and Readiness to Lead Jason

Dean Arnold, 2014 The present study examined the relationship between aspiring school principals' self-perceived competency regarding expected leadership behaviors as indicated by the domains identified in the 2011 Florida Principal Leadership Standards and their perception of their leadership style as indicated by the Multifactor Leadership Questionnaire (Bass & Avolio, 1994). The conceptual frameworks of this study included leadership style, as defined and conceptualized by Bass and Avolio's Full Range Leadership Model and measured by the Multifactor Leadership Questionnaire (MLQ), and leadership behavior, as defined through the domains of the Florida Principal Leadership Standards (FPLS, 2011). Both the MLQ and the FPLS questionnaire served as data collection instruments. The three main leadership styles measured by the MLQ (including transformational, transactional, and laissez-faire leadership) served as the independent variables, and the four leadership domains measured by the FPLS questionnaire (i.e., student achievement, instructional leadership, organizational leadership, professional and ethical behavior) served as the dependent variables. The research sample included participants currently enrolled in a state-approved Level 1 Educational Leadership Program and were recruited to participate from 3 state universities in Florida. Both survey instruments were administered via a single, anonymous link embedded in an email containing both an introduction and description of the research study and informed consent. Of 200 potential participants, 48 respondents or 24% of the original sample returned completed surveys. Using canonical correlation analysis, the study found that the degree of respondents' self-perceived ability to competently perform the leadership behaviors as identified by the four 2011 FPLS domains could be explained to some degree by respondents' self-perceived leadership style (as identified on the MLQ). Two canonical roots were interpreted. The MLQ predictor variables accounted for 48% of the variance in the FPLS subscale scores (root 1 $R^2 = .48$; p $R^2 = .117$) accounted for a moderate amount of the shared variance between the two sets (i.e., 12%) and was not statistically significant ($p > .05$). The correlation in this root was due primarily to a direct relationship between MLQ transactional leadership and the professional and ethical behavior domain of the FPLS. Additionally, the findings indicated that participants of Level 1 Educational Leadership programs felt confident in their ability to competently perform the expected behavioral indicators of the 2011 FPLS domains. .05). The correlation in this root was due primarily to a direct relationship between MLQ transactional leadership and the professional and ethical behavior domain of the FPLS. Additionally, the findings indicated that participants of Level 1 Educational Leadership programs felt confident in their ability to competently perform the expected behavioral indicators of the 2011 FPLS domains.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Curriculum Leadership Development Carol A. Mullen, 2012-11-12 Curriculum Leadership Development is an up-to-date, user-friendly textbook offering unique approaches to help readers understand the complexity of curriculum leadership. It is grounded in current and relevant theory, research, legislation, and application in the closely related areas of curriculum leadership, development, and scholarship. The text solidifies the concepts of curriculum and leadership in experiential learning contexts, and promotes democratic action and critical thinking. Author Carol A. Mullen uses a descriptive, qualitative approach that integrates case study, data analysis, personal reflection, and lessons learned. Among the most important elements of the book are: *the inclusion of the voice and curricular experiences of the professional student who is a seasoned teacher or beginning administrator; *detailed illustrations of practitioners' experiences as curriculum makers and action researchers; *an articulation of the links among curriculum development, constructivist curricula, and mentoring scaffolds; and *practical exercises to accompany case studies. Graduate and advanced undergraduate students in education will find this textbook of value in their coursework, as will curriculum professionals who teach practicing teachers.

10 florida principal leadership standards: Senior-level School District Administrators'

Perceptions of the Effectiveness of a Florida Preparing New Principals Program Eddie A. Ruiz, 2013
The purpose of this study was to examine and measure Preparing New Principals Program completers and their readiness to meet the 2011 Florida Principal Leadership Standards. This study was also conducted to identify the Florida Principal Leadership Standards that senior-level school district administrators identified as the most beneficial to future principals in improving student achievement despite increased accountability within the state. A group of 40 senior-level school district administrators who served on the superintendent's cabinet between 2008 and 2011 were sent a perceptual survey regarding the Preparing New Principals Program and the Florida Principal Leadership Standards. Survey participants had the opportunity to voluntarily participate in a structured interview to obtain further information regarding the survey. All data from the surveys and interviews were studied and disseminated to the district for redesigning the school district's principal preparation program.
